

LIVING ORGANISMS

are of two types

Unicellular

Multicellular

Made up of many cells

For E.g. Amoeba

All functions performed by the same cell

For E.g. Human beings and plants

Different functions are performed by different cells Division of labour

Every multicellular living body consists of :

A group of cells that are similar in structure performing a specialized function or a particular function forms a tissue.

